Cabinet Firm Producing Now In Lomita

Rapidly getting back into production, the Southern Cabinet Co., which incurred heavy loss and delay by a fire that destroyed their plant in Los Angeles, is now busy filling orders in the plant on Ebony Lane, formerly occupied by the Southern Sash and Door concern.

J. P. Hameetman, president, has from 15 to 18 men employed now and expects to have 40 before long. The company makes Ghilliani radio cabinets, as well as other period furniture, and is busy completing some fine cabinets for a Los Angeles store.

Walnut and mahogany are used, most of the cabinets being designed to contain radio, phonograph and voice recording machines. Office suites and occasional furniture are also manufactured.

The cabinet work is not out of date, as many people in this machine age think. "Good wood, properly finished, should not blister or crack, with any reasonable care," says Hameetman, who is using the best finishes and latest methods. The industry is a promising one for this section, located conveniently near the harbor and with good highways to Los Angeles.

Special Cachet on Letters Mailed During N.B.P.W.C. Convention

The Los Angeles postmaster announces that during the biennial convention of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, Inc., to be held at the Ambassador Hotel July 6 to 11, a commemorative cachet will be impressed on the envelope of mail presented with a request for this special feature.

Mail to receive this cachet should be sent under cover directed to Postmaster, Los Angeles, in ample time to be received by July 6. The outside envelope should be endorsed "Covers for Special Cachet." In preparing this mail it is advisable to use envelopes not smaller than 3 by 6 inches. The name and address should be written as far to the right as possible, leaving ample space at the left for the cachet. The required postage should be affixed to each envelope and the envelope sealed. The postage on the outside envelope addressed to the postmaster should be fully prepaid.

Arrangements will also be made to have the cachet impressed on letters presented at the post office station in the Ambassador Hotel during the convention.

They Knew Lomita In Early Days

"We know our Lomita," say those three who attended the old-timers party Saturday night. From left to right they are Pearl Chapman Riley, native daughter, now living in Wilmington; George Hall, 25516 Alliehe st., 85 years-old and a Lomitan since 1918, and Evabelle Towne Gamby, who came with her parents in 1904.

Consumer Rackets Exposed By Kiwanis Club Speaker

Charging that such organizations as Consumers Research, Consumers Union and books like "100,000,000 Guinea Pigs" were basing their attacks on national business on "half-truths, innuendo and misled 'pressure groups' Maurice W. Heaton, vice president of the firm of Williams, Lawrence and Creamer Co. of Los Angeles, appealed to the Torrance Kiwanis club Monday night to expose the "Consumer Racket" wherever it is found.

That this insidious influence, plainly linked with Communism and radicalism thru its founders and present leaders, exists only for the personal gain of its officers was revealed by Heaton in a talk that was praised by President John McCall as "one of the finest this club has heard this year."

Heaton in opening his expose of "The Consumer Racket" declared that it was "hard to cope with because of its technique in using threat and intimidation. This is a racket preying on all advertising businesses and has been found to be bringing poison into homes and schools in many devious ways."

Seek Production Control
Consumers Research has been operating since 1929 as an offshoot of Consumers Union. Leaders have become rich thru the sale of their sensational books and support of the League of Women Shoppers, which Heaton declared was Communist in the core as pointed out by Senator Martin Dies in his recent book.

"These groups seek control of the means of production in the U. S.," the speaker said, quoting Fulton Oursler, nationally-known magazine editor. "They operate on three broad fronts. First is the 'pressure groups' who rant and rave and specifically attack Standard Oil and many manufacturers of nationally-known products. Then there are the legitimate consumers themselves, women's groups, P. T. A.'s and others who are stirred up in their attempts to protect their own interests and are being generally misled by the 'consumer racket.'

"The third front is composed of public school teachers, most of them extremely gullible, who are intrigued by the gospel of half-truths and misleading statements in the books of the 'consumer racketeers.' Organized advertising is now combating these pressure fronts with clear, open public statements as to the integrity of nationally-known products," Heaton pointed out.

Example of Coca-Cola
He cited for examples the Consumers Research attacks on such products as Pebecco, Carbona and Murine, giving specific information to show the falsity of the so-called Researchers' criticisms of each. The Researchers, he maintained, could not scientifically test all the products they claim to have passed on because, by their own report, they only expended about $12,000 in testing some 2,000 items.

"Why, Chrysler spent $5,000,000 last year alone in testing automobiles, Westinghouse spent $12,000,000 and other manufacturers use proportionate sums to find out the value of their products before offering them to the public."

To the assertion of the Researchers that "advertising is economic waste," Heaton cited as an example the Coca-Cola

Jump in County Taxes Certain; Budget Shows

Delayed because a legal notice had to be published, public hearings on the 1941-42 county budget are to open next Monday, June 18. Increase in the county general tax levy is indicated by a paragraph in the message from Wayne Allen, the board's chief officer, published as a preface to the preliminary budget, and which the taxpayer will be confronted with on opening the budget.

"The estimated delinquency on general taxes is $1,616,094, an increase over last year's budget, due to the estimated increase in the tax levy," Allen's budget message states. He added that this figure could be adjusted when the final budget was adopted. The preliminary budget for next year shows that $38,440,000 must be raised by tax levy, as compared with $36,041,800 that was actually raised this year for general county purposes and for special county funds.

This is an increase of $2,400,000 for next year, which would amount to approximately 18 cents on the general county levy, provided the assessed valuation remains the same as for this year. It is too early to make accurate predictions as to what the general county tax rate will be, county officials explained on the eve of the budget hearings.
